Tutoring Experience

Over my 13-year career, I've supported students in mastering the complexities of A-Level Maths, including Pure Maths, Mechanics, and Statistics. I've also worked extensively with IGCSE and IB students, preparing them for challenging assessments and ensuring they build a solid foundation in mathematical principles.

During my tenure as a private tutor, I have collaborated with international schools in Spain, tailoring lessons to meet specific curriculum demands. My experience extends to helping students achieve consistently high grades, with many securing admissions to prestigious universities across Europe.

I enjoy working closely with my students to identify areas where they need support, particularly in topics like calculus, probability, and algebra. My commitment has always been to equip them with the skills and confidence to succeed in competitive academic environments.
